

Occasional Papers Planned

John Newman and David Willson, who recently collaborated on the third edition of Vietnam War Literature: An Annotated Bibliography of Imaginative Works about Americans Fighting in Vietnam (Scarecrow Press, Inc.), are planning to edit a series of occasional papers on scholarly, critical, analytical, and bibliographic subjects associated with Vietnam War literature. For information, contact Willson at Green River Community College Library, 12401 320th St. SE, Auburn, WA 98402 (dwillson@grcc.ctc.edu) or Newman at Colorado State University Libraries, Fort Collins CO 80521 (jnewman@manta.colostate.edu).

Seeking Contributors

The editors of The Encyclopedia of American War Literature, to be published by Greenwood Press, are seeking contributors. If you are interested in participating in this project, contact either:

Philip K. Jason
English Department
U.S. Naval Academy
107 Maryland Avenue
Annapolis, MD 21402
(pjason@arctic.nadn.navy.mil)

Mark A. Graves
English Department
Bowling Green State University
Bowling Green, OH 43403
(mgraves@bgnet.bgsu.edu)

Edward de Vere Studies

The Department of English at Concordia University announces the convocation of the Second Annual Edward de Vere Studies Conference. We invite papers of approximately 30 minutes' reading length for presentation on any topic related to studies advancing research in the Shakespeare Authorship Question (with special attention to contemporary research suggestive of the seventeenth Earl of Oxford's authorship of the Shakespeare canon). To apply for a place on the conference agenda, please submit, for reception by 8 January 1998, a 500-word abstract, along with a CV or a brief professional biography, to:

Dr. Daniel L. Wright, Chair
Department of English
Concordia University
Portland, OR 97211-6099

Cost for conference registration is $55 (graduate students, $25), checks payable to the Edward de Vere Studies Conference. For further information, contact Dr. Daniel Wright at the address above; phone number, 503.28-9371, ext. 7223; or e-mail: dlwright@teleport.com

Portland, OR
2-5 April 1998